Deadline for proposals: Monday 28 May 2018

The theme of the conference is “Africa and the current Global Education agenda: new challenges, old habits”. The intention is to generate debate amongst a broad range of education academics about issues of development and transformation in 21st century Africa, how this is captured within the global education agenda, and the implications for universities, schools, policymakers, education departments, NGOs and other ‘global south’ contexts. Sub-themes include the following:

- How may education in Africa speak back to mainstream global knowledge debates and policy decisions?
- Does Africa have rights, voice, or accountability within global education policy discourses?
- How may race and gender and its manifestation within schools in Africa be differently understood within global education debates?
- Could global education debates be remapped and reworked to take account of Africa intellectual inputs, and internal flows of knowledge and exchange?
- Is Africa a homogenous region within global education debates? What imperial flows of knowledge within Africa shape current debates?

- 'New voices, actors and knowledge producers in Africa': Teaching and learning as emancipatory in schools of the global south.
- Education policy developments in Africa in the 21st century: How do different contexts in Africa engage with global education agendas?

The format of the conference will include full length papers, panel discussions, symposia, round table discussions and poster presentations. Abstracts of papers (max. 350 words) must be submitted to the conference organizer, Jo-Anne Koch. The deadline for proposals is 28 May 2017.

Local and international scholars and agencies in the field of Comparative, International, Development Education, History and Sociology of Education are invited to attend and participate in sub-themes, which will include, inter alia, education and economic austerity, development agencies, language of teaching and learning, teacher education policy and practice. Consult the SACHES website: www.saches.co.za.

THE SOAPBOX POSTGRADUATE STUDENTS

Inline with broadening our SACHES membership base and getting younger aspiring scholars involved, we would like to introduce the Postgraduate Soapbox.

Postgraduate students are invited to present their research study/concept in 8 minutes. The best research study/concept and in the most creative presentation will stand a chance to win one year's membership and free access to your next SACHES conference!

To enter, send your name, degree and one paragraph to joanne.adams@saches.co.za by 2 July 2018.

CALL FOR SUBMISSION OF PAPERS FOR THE SPECIAL EDITION OF THE SARE JOURNAL

We would like to invite papers that engage critically with questions around the theme of the conference, or introduce additional questions for this special edition of the journal. Papers can be conceptual or empirical but must address the concerns of the special issue clearly.

SUBMISSION PROCEDURE

Authors are invited to submit by 20 August 2018 a two page proposal clearly explaining the concerns of their proposed paper and how it relates to the purpose and focus areas of this special issue, including a tentative structure of the proposed paper. A one-pager should be included with your e-mail, mailing address and phone number. Authors will be notified by 3 September 2018 about the status of their proposal. Full papers are to be submitted by 17 September 2018. All submitted papers will be reviewed on a double-blind review basis and returned to authors after review. Final manuscripts are due by 31 October 2018. These dates will be strictly adhered to as this SARE special issue is due to be published in the 2018 academic year.

Page fees will be payable on notification that an article has been accepted for publication. Authors should submit electronic versions of their initial proposals to Jo-Anne at joanne.adams@saches.co.za.
